

31st May 2010

On Friday, the 28th of May, we had an incursion called 'Laughter is the Best Medicine'. It was about camp quality and how they help kids with cancer. It was ran by two ladies. They told us about camp quality. They said they made it so that children with cancer could have as much fun as kids without cancer. They also did a puppet show. There was a boy called Bear and he was going to school when he bumped onto his old friend. She hadn't been to school for a very long time because she was in hospital. Bear looked at her and said she looked different and said some mean things to her. So she walked away. He wondered what was
